WINNIPEG March 02, 2007 - The public is advised that the southbound curb lane of Route 90, from Ness Avenue to the south end of the St. James Bridge, will close today at approximately 6 p.m. as repairs to St. James Bridge are undertaken. The curb lane is expected to be reopened by the afternoon rush hour on Monday, March 5, 2007 (3:30 p.m.). The exit ramps from Portage Avenue onto Route 90 will remain open during this time.

The closure is required to repair a bridge girder that was damaged last week when an over-height truck travelling eastbound on Wellington Crescent collided with the underside of the southbound St. James Bridge.

Wellington Crescent is currently closed to vehicular traffic under the St. James Bridge for this purpose, and is expected to reopen late Tuesday afternoon (March 6, 2007).

Pedestrian traffic will be accommodated on the St. James Bridge and Wellington Crescent during this time.
